

Executive Director, Global Partnership for Sustainable Development Data

The Global Partnership for Sustainable Development Data is recruiting for the senior position of Executive Director.

Launched in September 2015 by more than 70 governments, civil society groups, companies, international organizations, and expert networks worldwide, the Global Partnership for Sustainable Development Data (GPSDD) will help harness the data revolution to fill critical gaps, and ensure data is more accessible and useable to end extreme poverty, combat climate change, and ensure a healthy life for all. The GPSDD envisions a world in which timely, accurate, and high quality data is harnessed to significantly contribute to achieving and measuring sustainable development - leaving no one behind. The GPSDD has selected the United Nations Foundation to be the institutional host.

The Executive Director (ED) should be a dynamic and innovative leader, with a clear vision for how data and technology can be used to advance sustainable development globally. The ED will be accountable for strategic planning and vision, program implementation, policy advocacy, partner engagement, monitoring and evaluation of the Partnership's activities, operations, communications, resource mobilization, and managing the day-to-day activities of the Secretariat and staff.

If you are interested in applying for this role, please send a cover letter and résumé to GPSDD2016@egonzehnder.com. Visit the following website for more information on the position: <http://appointments.egonzehnder.com/>.

Please note the closing date for applications is Friday, April 1st.
