IASE News October 2018

World Statistics Congress 2019 Contributed Paper Submission Open

Contributed paper submission is open for the 62nd ISI World Statistics Congress, to be held from 18 to 23 August 2019 in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. Each individual can orally present one paper at the conference, making this an opportunity for everyone. Because of the high number of submissions, it's important to follow the guidelines at http://www.isi2019.org/guidelines-for-paper-submission/

Paper submission is available from now through 31 January 2019.

Invited Sessions Announced for World Statistics Congress 2019

The IASE will have substantial presence in invited paper sessions (IPS) at the World Statistics Congress. Looking through the published list, we saw the following titles related to statistics. (I apologize if I missed any.) Organizers live in Asia, Africa, Oceania, Europe, and the Americas, demonstrating the worldwide representation of the IASE.

Measuring the cost of producing a graduate of statistics in African universities, Olusanya Elisa Olubusoye of Nigeria; Statistical literacy and citizen's participation: A call for civic statistics, Joachim Engel of Germany;

Statistical and data literacy education for life, Helen MacGillivray of Australia; Building future generations of statisticians through outreach, Ayse Bilgin of Australia;

Ways to improve critical statistical literacy, Reija Helenius of Finland; Recent development on methods in teaching in learning in statistics, Zamalia Mahmud of Malaysia;

The future of statistical capacity building in Africa: An example through the Waemu modernization and harmonization of household surveys, by Felicien Accrombessy of Benin; The status of statistics education from different countries and perspectives, by Gail Burrill of United States;

Data science, statistics, and information generation, by Nalini Ravishanker of United States; Risk and probability literacy, by Manfred Borovcnik of Austria;

The educational impact of statistical collaboration laboratories on students, by Eric Vance of United States.

III International Virtual Congress on Statistical Education (CIVEEST) 21 -24 February, 2019: Paper Submission Extension

The Statistical Education Research Group at the University of Granada is organising the III International Virtual Congress on Statistical Education (CIVEEST) to promote research and innovation in the field of statistics education in Iberoamérica. The congress is also organized as a tribute to Dr. Carmen Batanero on the occasion of her 70th birthday. The virtual conference will be held from 21 to 24 February 2019.

Paper submission has been extended until 20 October; papers can be submitted in English or Spanish. Refereeing will occur during November, with decisions made in early December. Those interested in taking part in the conference should register on the conference web site, http://civeest.com, and fill the requested data in the registration form.
The conference email is mailto:congreso@civeest.com.

Reminder - How to Submit Announcements

As a reminder, if you or your group would like to make an announcement to IASE members and the ISI community, please send details to news editor Adam Molnar at adam.molnar at okstate.edu. Valuable announcements include conference descriptions, registration deadlines, conference reports, online meetings, and special journal issues on statistics education topics.
