

IASE News April 2020

Registration open for Electronic Conference on Teaching Statistics, 18 - 22 May 2020

As a primarily electronic conference, eCOTS 2020 is still planned to take place from 18 to 22 May. The conference program (available at <https://www.causeweb.org/cause/ecots/ecots20/program>) includes plenary talks on "Engaging Everyone: Context, Communication, Connections, and Commitment" and "Using Data Effectively: Beyond Art & Science". There will also be 45 minute webinars on at least a dozen topics and sessions where attendees can interact with participants presenting visual poster-like results.

Registration costs US$25 and is available at the conference website, <https://www.causeweb.org/cause/ecots/ecots20/>

IASE Roundtable converts to online discussion forum

Due to worldwide travel restrictions as a result of COVID-19, the 2020 IASE Roundtable will not be held on-site in Nanjing, China. Instead, communication will occur in an online platform. Paper presenters will upload papers and accompanying material in June. Led by discussion leaders, participants will exchange comments and questions about the papers. After the online forum in July, participants will be able to revise papers and discussion leaders will summarize online commentary. The proceedings, with revised papers and online discussion summaries, will be published late in the year on the IASE website, <https://iase-web.org/conference/roundtable20/>

OZCOTS and ICME14 Conference Postponements

The following conferences with substantial statistics education components have been delayed. Please send information (announcements, postponements, conversions to virtual meetings) about other conferences of interest to IASE membership to the News Editor, adam.molnar at okstate.edu.

OZCOTS 2020, part of the Australian and New Zealand Statistical Conference, has been postponed until 5 to 9 July 2021. The venue will be the Gold Coast Convention and Exhibition Centre in Australia.

ICME14, the 14th International Congress on Mathematical Education, has been postponed until 11 to 18 July 2021. It will now be held at East China Normal University in Shanghai, China.
